

Our experience as consultants being involved in many Business Transformations has shown that most companies still treat each initiative as a project. Even though the business is continuously evolving and adapting to changes from their internal and external environment. This results in initiatives having to constantly adjust concerning the scope and requirements. Very often the lack of experience in managing such initiatives, external consultants (i.e. system integrators) are involved in the hope that their skills are only required for a limited time. This again results in a high dependency and lack of control of the transformation. Business Transformation is a capability, not a project!

On the bottom line the Business Transformation Maturity within the company only develops slowly and undirected. We at bpExperts therefore believe companies need to take a strategic approach on establishing their business transformation capabilities.

Embedding capabilities into the fabric of your organization

Our mission is to secure the success of our customer's initiatives and build sustainable Business Transformation capabilities within the organization. In our involvement, we balance carefully between coaching and operative project support.

Based on your Business Transformation Maturity we develop a roadmap to tailor and establish Business Flows.

Our best practice transformation framework

Business Flows is our best practice transformation framework of methodologies and content to accelerate our customer's transformation capabilities.

Business Flows can be used to operationalize your strategy, ensure your value flows and optimize your processes. But also, for process due diligence, risk and compliance management and business certifications. Finally, it is a powerful accelerator for IT initiatives especially in the area of SAP S4/Hana.

Find out more and get your free trial here:
www.businessflows.de

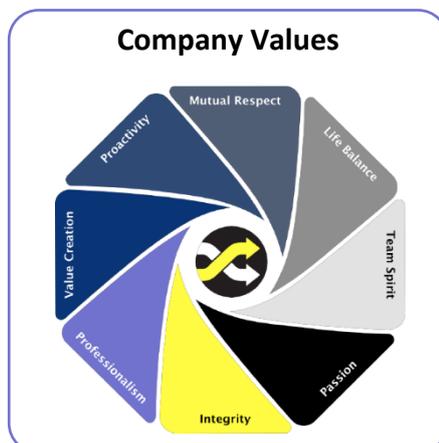

business flows

About bpExperts

Business Process Experts (bpExperts) is a management consulting company founded by experienced consulting partners devoted and passionate about business process management.

We firmly believe that for organizations to stay successful Business Transformation must become an organizational capability and not just be run as a project. National and international customers value us as an independent but connected business player. Our business is focused on the manufacturing, process and discrete industries with our roots in chemical and pharmaceutical including biotechnology but also strong industry specific process knowledge in discrete manufacturing (mass producer and engineered products), automotive suppliers, metal processing companies and others.

Our values are an integral part of our company culture and were created together as a team. We live up to these values in our daily work. We also continuously strengthen these values through various team events.